IMPORTANT NOTE

We are looking for partners who will let us tell their story through editorial-style content across our platforms.

Why this approach?

Because we understand that our community is very ad savvy and may well turn a blind eye to advertisements that don't feel organic or authentic.

In building on that trust and respecting our audience's passion for content about the local area, we can work together to promote your brands' products and services in a way that benefits everyone.

We take your input and images as a starting point. We create the final copy and creative in a way that we know will perform best.

DATA COLLECTION, SHARING, AND PRIVACY

Personal information and data on the individual subscribers and followers will not be shared with partners as part of our Privacy Policy. This is an agreement we have with our audience which has enabled us to build confidence and trust. We would recommend that sponsored content include links to forms for our audience to register for further information, thus agreeing to the advertiser's own Privacy Policy.

The only exception to this is the Sponsored Giveaway. The contest entrants are explicitly told in the Terms & Conditions that they are opting into both our email list and the sponsor's email list. Emails are shared with the sponsor after the giveaway winner has been announced.*

meet the local behind
THIS IS RiNo DENVER

HI, MY NAME IS CAMERON CAMPBELL, AND I'M THE FOUNDER OF THIS IS RiNo DENVER.

This Media Kit has taken you on a brief tour of our corner of town and how we work alongside local businesses to fuel our community, but I'm sure you'd like to get to know who we are a little better.

After all, a partnership is always better when you believe in the people behind the business.

My wife, our two pups, and I have lived in Five Points for over seven years, specifically in the area known locally as RiNo (River North).

We instantly fell in love with the neighborhood.

When we're not working, you can often find us hiking and camping in the magnificent surrounding mountains or exploring the local restaurants and businesses.

I truly love this part of Denver, and it brings me great joy to help others experience all that it has to offer.
